MODALS

- THEY CAN EXPRESS: OBLIGATION / PROHIBITION / ABILITY / PERMISSION / POSSIBILITY

- What are modal verbs?

- Modal verbs are special verbs which behave very differently from normal verbs. They give additional information about the function of the main verb that follows it. Here are some important differences:

1. Modal verbs do not take "-s" in the third person / -ed for the past / -ing for the gerund.

- He can speak Chinese.
- She should be here by 9:00.

2. You use "not" to make modal verbs negative, even in simple present and simple past.

- He should not be late.
- They might not come to the party.

3. Many modal verbs cannot be used in the past tenses or the future tenses. Other forms should be used.

- He will can go with us. → Not correct
- She musted study very hard. → Not correct

MODALS - MUST

- We can use must to show that we are certain something is true. We are making a logical deduction based upon some clear evidence or reason.
 - There's no heating on. You must be freezing.
 - It must be nice to live in Florida.
 - You must be thirsty after all that running.
 - It must be John. He said he would come at three o'clock

MODALS - MUST

- We also use must to express a STRONG OBLIGATION. This usually means that some personal circumstance makes the obligation necessary (and the speaker almost certainly agrees with the obligation or the obligation comes from the speaker himself/herself or from the authority that wrote the sentence).
 - I must go to bed earlier.
 - I must stop smoking.
 - (Teacher to student) You must hand in your homework on Tuesday or you will 10% of your mark.
 - (Sign on a plane) Seat belts must be worn by all passengers.
 - (Sign in a park) You must have a permit to enter the park.

MODALS - MUST

Must is used to express a strong recommendation.

It can be substituted by should to mitigate the strength of the sentence.

- You must take a day off and have some rest.
- You should take a day off.

- We'll have to have lunch and catch up on all the gossip.

MODALS – DON'T HAVE TO

- I haven't got to go. Only if I want to.

MODALS - DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MUSTN'T AND DON'T HAVE TO

The differences between the affirmative forms of must and have to are sometimes very small and very subtle. However, there is a huge difference in the negative forms.

Mustn't means it's not allowed, or it's a bad idea.

- You mustn't eat so much chocolate, you'll be sick.
- You mustn't phone me at work. We aren't allowed personal calls.

Don't have to means you don't need to do something, but it's fine if you want to do it. There's no obligation at all, no need to do it.

- 2) Specific ability: this mean something that you can or can't do in one particular situation. For example, being able to lift something heavy, or find somewhere you are looking for.

- There are three modal verbs used to show ability:

- CAN

When we form sentences that express ability in particular past situations, we must always use the modals could or couldn't. Was/were able to or wasn't/weren't able to are never used with these verbs.
